SIX HOMELESS AS HOUSE BURNS

Red Cross Chapter Prompt to Assist Family Losing All In Thursday Night Blaze

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wild and the four children escaped with their lives but "without a stitch" of their belongings when a fire destroyed their residence on the old Dr. Baum ranch early Thursday evening.

The six-room house, owned by Dr. L. J. Anderson, with all its furnishings, owned by the Wild family, was a complete loss. Anderson said Friday morning the building was insured.

Placerville Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm but the frame building had burned rapidly and there was little the firemen could do.

Officers of El Dorado County Red Cross chapter were on the scene before the fire was out and made provision to assist the family for the night, and on Friday morning were preparing to give further aid to the family, to whom the fire came as the second such misfortune within two years. They had previously been burned out at Auburn.

The fire is reported to have started in the kitchen of the dwelling, where clothing hanging around the stove to dry caught fire. Mrs. Wilds was at home alone with the children, her husband being employed at the Pismo Vista Dairy.

She ran into the yard to attempt to fight the fire with a garden hose but when she returned to the kitchen, the blaze had gained such headway that it was apparent she must get the four children safely out of the building and then call help.

The children are two boys, aged seven years and four years, a girl aged two years, and a ten-month old infant.

Outfitted with night clothing by the Red Cross chapter, and equipped with bedding by the chapter, the family spent the night with friends. Clothing also was provided for the seven-year-old boy so that he might attend school as usual Friday morning.

With this emergency preparation made immediately following the fire, the Red Cross chapter officers made plans for further assistance for the family on Friday morning.

The Red Cross chapter was joined Friday morning by the American Legion Auxiliary and by the Placerville Church of the Nazarene in rendering assistance to the distressed family and various individuals volunteered their co-operation as knowledge of the emergency spread through the community.

This is a splendid example of emergency relief work in our own midst by the Red Cross chapter.

Ski Club Maps Queen Contest

Emblem Design Submitted By Poul Smith Wins Award Of Winter Sports Group

Placerville Ski Club launched preparations for having a number of entries in the contest to name the club's candidate for the honor of being queen of the Sacramento Winter Sports Carnival at the regular club meeting on Thursday night.

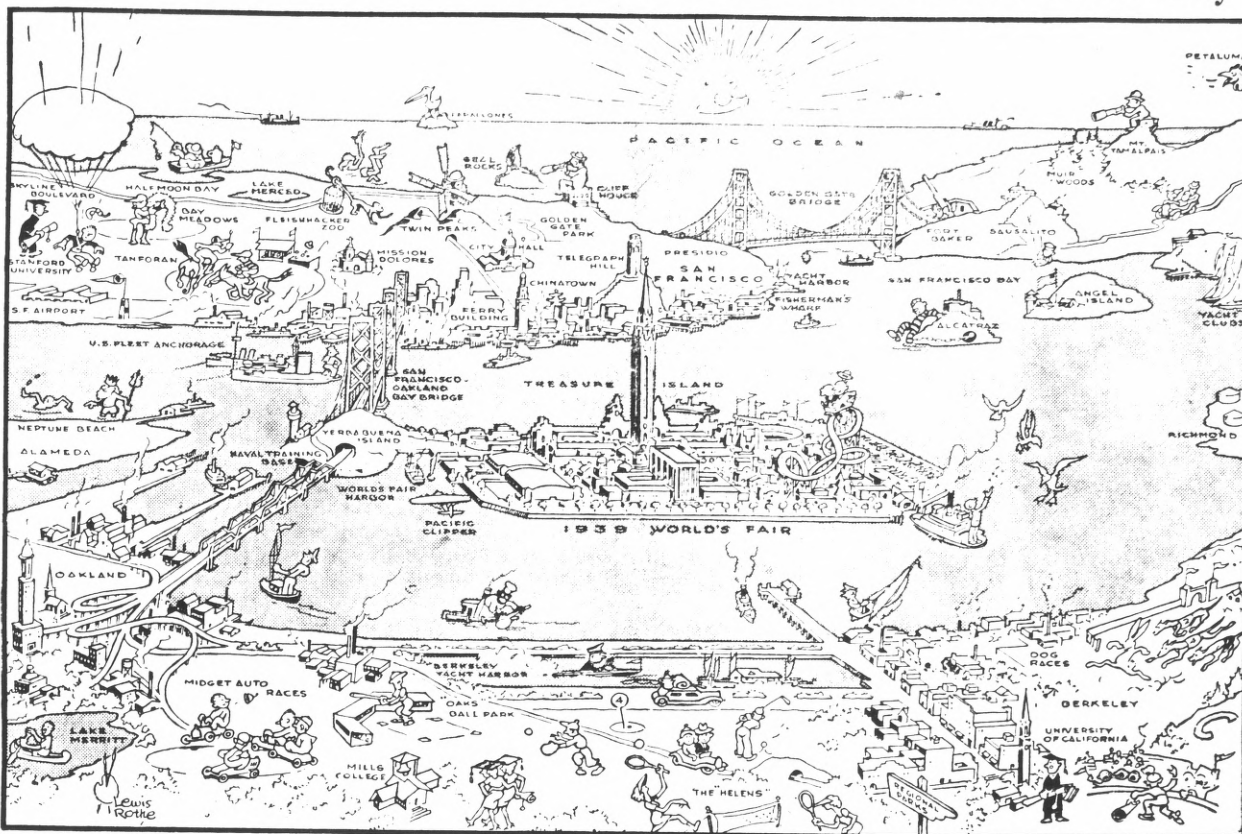

All who will be interested in participating in the contest to qualify as the club's entry in the sports carnival should immediately contact Miss Violet Cearley, at the Land Studio, who is membership chairman of the club.

The winter sports carnival will be held at Sacramento early in January.

Other business of the club included the selection by the membership of the emblem design submitted by Poul Smith, as the best of the designs submitted. Whether the club may use Mr. Smith's design or will seek another one, has not been determined. Club officials reported that the design entered by Mr. Smith is strikingly similar to the American Olympic emblem and if a comparison shows too great a similarity, the design may not be used by the local club. However, Mr. Smith received the club award for submitting the best design, a set of ski poles.

Of interest to winter sports is the announcement Friday of the winter sports calendar for the season. The only event scheduled in this county is a competitive meet between Placerville and Sacramento skiers at Twin Bridges on April 30.

As Seagulls See California World's Fair in San Francisco Bay

THIS HUMOROUS SKETCH by Artist Lewis Rothe colorfully portrays the man-made island setting of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition in the middle of San Francisco Bay. The site, which has been named Treasure Island, lies between the two famous new bridges. In the foreground you can see Oakland and other East Bay communities; in the background is San Francisco and the great Pacific Ocean. Note at right: Alcatraz Island, the Federal Government's "home" for the bad men.

FIRE SWEEPS 2,000 ACRES

CCC Crew Of 35 Barely Saved As Flames Sweep Through Experimental Forest Reserve

LOS ANGELES, (U)—A squad of 35 WPA workers at Dry Lake Camp in the San Dimas experimental forest on the slopes of San Antonio Canyon, 60 miles northeast of here, barely escaped with their lives early today as a forest fire swept through the valuable preserve.

United States forest rangers were collecting 500 fire fighters, and 500 more were being rushed to the scene from Los Padres, San Bernardino and Cleveland National Forests.

Forest Ranger Sherman Foster, standing from his steel lookout tower on Sunset Peak by the spreading flames, led to safety and they had passed over and then returned to in part where he operated his watches, and reporting progress of the fire.

The flames burned over upwards of 2,000 acres and were eating their way down San Antonio Canyon, fanned by a 40-mile north wind.

CCC camp enrollees were rushed into the lines and by 7 o'clock 500 men were battling the blaze. By mid-morning it was expected 1000 would be on the fire lines.

Man, Wife Arrested On Assault Charges

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Shaw were held at the county jail Thursday night on charges of assault, on the complaint of William M. Selby, following an altercation in the Smith Flat district.

Selby declined to state the basis for the disagreement and claimed there was none until Shaw allegedly struck him. Constable T. J. Martin stated that Shaw took a similar view of the affair.

The assault charges include the allegation that Shaw obtained a rifle during the altercation and subsequently passed it to Mrs. Shaw, directing her to keep Selby "covered."

The defendants appeared Friday morning before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis who set the hearing in the matter for ten o'clock Saturday morning.

Mother Of Diamond Springs Lady Is Summoned

Funeral services were held at Sacramento on Friday morning for Mrs. Catherine Daisy Wright, 62, of Diamond Springs, who died Wednesday at a Sacramento hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Wright was the widow of the late Francis A. Wright and was the mother of Mrs. Alice Juster, of Diamond Springs, and a native of London, England.

County 4-H Clubs Had Active Enrollment Of 96 For Year

Active 4-H Club enrollment in the county during the past year numbered 96 members who were engaged in a total of 117 projects. It was announced Friday by Vinton Veerkamp, county 4-H Club Council chairman, in calling attention to the opening of the enrollment period for the new year.

Enrollment cards were distributed to club leaders at the November Council meeting at which a new club in the Summit district, with Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Barton as leaders of the agricultural and clothing sections respectively, was welcomed.

Attention was directed at the meeting to the annual Northern California 4-H Club leaders' conference, at Adams Springs on December 2, 3 and 4, which several of the local leaders will attend.

The new record books for agricultural club members are more complete this year than previously and will be distributed as soon as the enrollment is completed.

Up and Down Broadway

By JACK GAYER

United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (U)—This is the second, and crucial, season for the Mercury Theater organization of Orson Welles, who scarcely needs any introduction to the country at large now. Last season the Mercury was the darling of critics and public alike, arousing enthusiasm with unorthodox production of "Julius Caesar" and "The Shoemakers' Holiday," but the honeymoon is over now and the future of the group depends largely upon how it weathers the sophomore year.

Welles has started things off with a production of George Buchner's 100-year-old French Revolution play, "Danton's Death," which has been seen here previously only in a German version offered by Max Reinhardt a decade ago. The production is in the Welles' groove, utilizing platforms, strange lighting effects, trapdoors and whatnot to keep the drama moving along rapidly and without a break for an hour and a half. There is no intermission.

To say that "Danton's Death" is not as exciting as "Julius Caesar," which it resembles somewhat in the matter of staging as well as being slightly similar in theme, is not to say that it is without its merits. However, it will appeal more to those earnest theatregoers concerned with staging and other technical matters than it will to the much larger group of entertainment seekers.

The play deals with the fall from grace of Danton after he has played a vital role as a leader of the Revolution. The humorless and straight-laced Robespierre charges Danton and his immediate circle of too much moderation, of affecting the aristocratic vices of easy living and licentiousness. Aided by St. Just, Robespierre brings the Danton group to trial before the Convention, and sends them to the guillotine despite the oratory of Dan-

The distinguished actor, Vladimir Sokoloff, unfortunately is not the happiest choice for Robespierre largely because his accent detracts from his otherwise excellent portrayal. Martin Gabel is the Danton and an able one; Welles makes a couple of brief appearances as St. Just. Others in the cast are Anna Stafford, Edgar Barrier, Evelyn Wahle, Morgan Farley, William Mowry, Arlene Francis, and Joseph Cotton.

The drama is played against a huge backdrop on which are painted hundreds of heads, supposedly symbolizing the victims of the guillotine, which in a certain light can be made to resemble as many grinning skulls. There are no formal sets, although props such as a sofa, desk and chairs are used. The changes are effected by blackouts.

The chief detractor from the effectiveness of the play is that the characters do not come across the footlights with sufficient warmth to make you believe in them or care about them. Part of this is due to the script, part to the manner in which the play is staged.

The late O. O. McIntyre used to do a lot of writing in his New York column about small town boys who made good in the big city, and about his own home town, Gallipolis, O. This suggested an idea for a play to Raymond Knight and the result is "Run Sheep Run," produced by Donald Blackwell and Raymond Curtis, and featuring Hugh O'Connell, whose return from Hollywood is hereby hailed with delight, for he is a funny man and there are never too many such on Broadway.

Of course, Knight's columnist is no copy of McIntyre, or even a caricature. Wilkes Potter has reached middle age as a popular syndicated writer of New York chit-chat who

But Anything May Happen As Betting Marts Quote Odds 2 To 1 On Berkeley

By ROGER JOHNSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, (U)—The betting marts today made University of California 2 to 1 favorite over Stanford in their annual football cause celebre but all hands agreed that a logical climax to a dizzy Pacific Coast Conference season could easily be a victory for tobagged Stanford.

California, which still has a Chinaman's chance for a Rose Bowl bid, and Stanford, bruised and defeated by most of the conference teams despite an impressive yardage average, meet tomorrow afternoon in the Memorial Coliseum at Berkeley in what the two schools traditionally label the "big game." Probably 82,000 fans will be on hand.

The 2 to 1 odds, on close inspection, fall apart. Upsets and surprises are the rule, not the exception, in Stanford-California games. Add to that the emotional frenzy that annually besets both camps and you get a psychological factor to nullify the mathematics.

California and U. S. C. are tied for conference leadership with one loss apiece. The Trojans' defeat by Alabama might count against them when the Rose Bowl committee makes its selection. But there is no doubt that California must beat Stanford, and beat her rather decisively, to get a look-in when the Pasadena conferees convene.

California has scored 101 points against six conference opponents' 37. Stanford has scored 44 against the same six conference opponents' 51. On the subject of touchdowns, California has a much better argument.

Stanford made a reputation as a touchdown-less ground-gainer. Against Oregon State, Stanford made 213 yards and held the Beavers to 108 on a muddy field and failed to score. Oregon State won, 6 to 0.

California had a dry field and ran 227 yards to Oregon State's 148, but the Bears scored 14 points to the Beavers' 7.

Tomorrow it may be Stanford's turn to make touchdowns.

Traffic Deaths In State Off

September Accidents on Rural Roads Gain But Fatalities Are 19 Per Cent Less

SACRAMENTO — Traffic deaths on rural highways of California during September continued to decrease, showing a reduction of 32 or 19 per cent as compared with September 1937, Chief E. Raymond Cato of the California Highway patrol stated today.

During the first nine months of the year, there has been a reduction of 132 deaths on the rural roads, or 15 per cent he added.

"The September reduction in the rural areas was very favorable in view of the fact that the total reduction for the state was only 22 deaths, or 8.4 per cent," said Cato. "The nine months reduction for the state as a whole was 280 deaths, or 13 per cent."

While deaths declined, September September showed an increase of 227 of more reportable accidents on rural roads than a year ago. Explanation of this is given that the law giving the California Highway Patrol authority to investigate accidents where persons are injured has increased the number of persons making reports as required by law.

MAD DOGPARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, La. (U.P.)—Now that John Donald Budge has turned professional and will play tennis for gold notes instead of silver plate, the United States Lawn Tennis Association must double and re-double its efforts toward the development of young Davis Cup prospects.

The dear old U. S. L. T. A. realizes that with the loss of Budge the American team must have a new No. 1 player if it wants to keep the cup on this side of the ocean. The association realizes almost as well as the Australians do that with no Budge in the line-up the kangaroo country is almost certain to hijack the international mug next summer.

I was furnished actual proof that the U. S. L. T. A. is hotter on the trail of new stars than a pack of bloodhounds after a jail-breaker.

NOBEL PRIZE—Pearl Buck, American author of "The Good Earth," and other novels and short stories about China, awarded the 1938 Nobel Prize for literature, by the Swedish Academy. Medal, scroll and check amounting to more than $40,000 will be presented by King Gustaf in Stockholm on Dec. 10. Mrs. Buck, in private life Mrs. Richard J. Walsh, is the third American to win the honor, following Sinclair Lewis and Eugene O'Neill.

Snake Venom Doubtful As Pain Killer

MONTREAL, (U.P.)—McGill University medical research workers are skeptical of the merits of snake venom as a "pain killer" and healer.

Commenting on reports that the venom can be used in the treatment of certain eye afflictions and for dulling pain in incurable disease, they said the deadly fluid of rattlesnakes, cobras and other poisonous reptiles was a complete protein-like substance which has neither antiseptic nor anesthetic power.

with the arrival today of U. S. L. T. A. service bulletin No. 15. Under the heading "How to make the Davis cup team," Mr. Holcombe Ward, one of the editors of the bulletin, gives 600 words of valuable advice to the young men who would like to represent their country in cup play.

After reading Mr. Ward's 600 words I could not help but come to the conclusion that he could have said it all in 12 words. Because, to tell you the truth, all Mr. Ward advised was for the boys to go out and develop a game that combined the best features of Budge, Tilden, Vines, Brooks, Larned, Wilding, both Doherty brothers, Cochet, Perry, Suzanne Lenglen. The boys who achieve this, hinted Mr. Ward—not too strongly, mind you, but fairly strongly—would be watched by the tennis fathers with "much interest."

I think this attitude of the U. S. L. T. A. is mighty fine. Its members show a great spirit when they agree to take time off from their strutting and badge designing to pay attention to young players whose games are scarcely developed past the stage where they could beat any player who ever lived.

The Davis cup committee, the article points out, is looking for players who "have the courage to go to the net, the ability to reach this dominating position behind deep forcing strokes, and the skill to win the point by a sharp volley or a decisive smash."

That's a surprising statement, isn't it? Almost as surprising, I would say, as one from a coal company saying it would hire miners who could mine 200 tons of coal a day, or one from a baseball team saying it would seriously consider engaging any player who could guarantee to lead the league in stolen bases, hitting, runs batted in, fielding, and home runs.

Yet I suppose it is best that the U. S. L. T. A. does demand that the prospects it considers must be able to execute all strokes with the perfection of a master. I doubt if the records would show that many men improved very much after they were named for the team. The vast majority of the non-playing captains, in whose hands the coaching of the boys is placed, are fine, upstanding citizens in private life, graced in all the social virtues. But as tennis coaches — well, I'll take Northwestern over Notre Dame.

is always putting in a plug for his home town of Parksburg, Ill., which he has not visited in 25 years, and the boys and girls with whom he went to school. As the play opens he has just received an invitation to attend the 25th anniversary of his high school class and to help him make up his mind, in pops good old Claude Pratt, the town practical joker, who is in New York to do some buying for his store. Urged by his mistress and dPratt, Potter decides to make the trip and he gets a big kick out of being back in his old bed at the home-stead.

Of course, when Potter left old Parksburg to make his fortune he left behind a sweetheart who soon married another. He has been looking forward to seeing her again, but is somewhat disillusioned when he finds her slightly fat, distinctly 40, and decidedly of the club woman type. However she has a grown daughter, who takes a shine to the columnist, chiefly because she wants to go to the big town to have a literary fling and escape what to her is small town boredom.

The town gossips get in their work, with the result that on the night of the banquet at which he is the guest of honor, Potter finds himself set upon by the girl's father, her boy friend and an old pal who imagines he has been insulted by an item in Potter's column. Potter escapes with his life and a vow never to leave New York again, but his return to the city is marred by finding that the girl has preceded him and is bent upon turning his mistress out of the apartment and living there herself. Of course, such advanced thinking of the younger generation stumps Potter, but his mistress is equal to the task of saving her home and just to insure her future against any other designing girls, decides it was time they got married.

O'Connell, as usual, is a delight, and he is accorded able assistance by such players as Ruth Weston, Alan Bunce, Beatrice Herford, John Kirk, Virginia Campbell, Regina Wallace, James Corner, Leo Kennedy, Enid Markley and Peggy Coudray.

This is a play strictly for laughs. The small town stuff is well written and well acted.

FIVE-MILE TERRACE

Election day may be over but the occasion will not be forgotten soon by the members of the election board at Blair's precinct. When the polls closed Tuesday evening, 488 voters of the 661 registered had cast their vote. All members of the board had served during the primary election in August with the exception of Mrs. McPhee who took the place of Mrs. Pearl Potts. At the primaries nearly three hundred votes were cast and the election board worked until about 2:30 p. m. on Wednesday, the day following. Everyone thought that was a record of one kind or another. However, as daylight began to shine through the windows of the little church on the morning of Wednesday, November 9, it seemed that little impression had been made on the heaping box of ballots. By actual count, less than half the ballots had been checked. Even then no one realized how long the session would last. Factory whistles blew, husbands came and went and still the counting went on. Wednesday evening anxious candidates began drifting in and newspaper representatives awaited the final count. It was nearly 2 o'clock Thursday morning when the final ballot was counted and no one even said "Hooray." It would be hard to say which was the more relieved, the working wives or the waiting husbands. The members of the election board were very grateful to the Boy Scouts for the use of their cook stove which made it possible for them to make hot tea and coffee. Mrs. Lulu Stanley, inspector, spoke highly of the faithful work and good sportsmanship of her helpers. Also serving on the board were Mrs. Alma Hamilton, Mrs. Jessie Williams, Mrs. R. Dodds, Mrs. Ethel McPhee and Mrs. Emily MacFarland. Parents and friends in Blair's school district are reminded of the Parent-Teacher Association meeting on Friday afternoon, November 18, at the schoolhouse. Mrs. John R. W. Wilson will preside and every member should plan to attend.

The children of Blair's school are planning their November birthday party for Thursday afternoon, November 17. Martha Durham, aged 8, and Bruce MacFarland, also aged 8, will celebrate.

On Sunday, November 13, the John R. W. Wilsons celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary. On Saturday evening in honor of the occasion, Miss Frances Hancock entertained the Wilsons at a dinner at her home at Gold Hill. Beside the honor guests there were present Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Ferris, of Placerville; Mr. and Mrs. Will Miller of Gold Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, of Berkeley.

Following a sudden change in their plans, the Joseph Findleys, with Joan and Bennie, moved back to the Bay District on Sunday. Mr. Findley had taken a six-month leave of absence from his employment in San Francisco and planned to take over the distribution of a well-known line of merchandise in this county. The Findleys are very enthusiastic about El Dorado County, however, and plan to spend their vacations at their home here.

Ralph LeVitt, moved down from Camp 12, above Pino, on Monday. Emily MacFarland and son Bruce, visited the Wathens at Fresh Pond on Sunday afternoon. The road in that vicinity is very icy and there was evidence that a number of cars had been in difficulty.

The Placerville Lumber Company's mill at Fresh Pond is closed for the season but lumber is still being hauled.

Earl Vanyle, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Lena Vanyle for the past month, left last week for Walker

Mine, Plumas County.

Helen Moran attended the Rainbow Girls' party at Placerville Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chessmore, of Bakersfield, who are visiting Mrs. Chessmore's mother, Mrs. Joe Miller, spent Monday shopping in Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, of Berkeley, spent the weekend with the John R. W. Wilsons. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Wilson are sisters.

Ray and Ladd Quiberg returned last week from Echo Summit, where they have been employed during the summer.

Ladd, with Carroll Morey, of Grizzly Flat, is now enjoying a vacation at Los Angeles.

Billie Moe, nephew of R. A. Barnes, returned to his home in Minnesota a week ago Sunday after a month's vacation here.

R. A. Barnes left on Wednesday for San Francisco to enter the Veterans' hospital for an operation. His friends surely wish him a speedy recovery. His barber shop in Camino will be in the care of a competent barber in his absence. Mrs. Barnes plans to stay in Sacramento until her husband is able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. W. Wilson spent Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Caldwell above Camino.

COLOMA

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Papina and three daughters from Sacramento spent the week-end at their summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neibling and their son, Mrs. Grace Bergantz and son Robert, of Placerville, and Clarence Stroup, of Pollock Pines, were guests at the Grout home Sunday.

We are all looking forward to the Thanksgiving services which will be held in our old Episcopal Church here next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. It is the regular service held here every third Sunday of each month in charge of Rev. Rex Barron, of Placerville.

Armistice day passed very quietly here, not many people being abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moyer, of Lotus, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Griswold at Camino Sunday.

The teachers of Lotus, Gold Hill and Coloma are making their annual preparations for the joint Christmas exercises here in Community Hall.

RESCUE

Plans are being laid for the Thanksgiving program to be given at the Rescue hall by the ladies of the community and the 4-H Club on Saturday evening, November 19 at 7 o'clock. The program will start about 8:30 o'clock and will be followed by dancing.

The Penny Club met at the home of Mrs. Marie Grien on Wednesday afternoon of last week. A very pleasant afternoon was spent at sewing and contests. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

The community was shocked and was very sorry to learn of the serious injury and subsequent death of Mr. John Wolfe in connection with an auto accident on U. S. Route 50 shortly before noon Monday. Mr. Wolfe had resided at the Litten-MacDonald home here for about a year, but was not very widely known in the community. At the time of the accident he had under construction a two-room cottage at his mining property on the Gold Hill road and was enroute there from Sacramento with provisions and other personal belongings preparatory to moving into his new home. Mr. Wolfe had a very adventurous life and had been much interested in mining for several years past. It is reported the body will be laid at rest at Deer Valley cemetery on Thursday afternoon.

A Mr. Primar Benton, of Walnut Park, Los Angeles County, was seriously injured in an automobile accident near the Charles Dixon ranch on the Green Valley road sometime Friday evening. Mr. Benton, being an entire stranger in these parts, failed to make a very sharp curve in the road and drove over a steep embankment. Early Saturday morning, we understand, Mr. Benton, of the Magnin ranch, found him and took him to a hospital in Sacramento, where he passed away on Monday. It is reported that Mr. Benton was enroute from his home to Oregon.

Mrs. Tillie Barton, of Sacramento, is spending the week at the George Wing ranch.

COOL

The Study Club held its regular meeting last Thursday afternoon at the 4-H Club house. Since the next regular meeting would fall on Thanksgiving Day, the members decided to postpone it until the following week.

Miss Ursula Hogan spent the Armistice Day weekend visiting her family in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Sander are entertaining relatives from Nebraska, their former home state.

Holly pickers from the bay cities are buying the crop of toyon berries on several of the local ranches. Though abundant this season, the berries are not as large as usual.

THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

The "clavilux" which is a color organ, has been brought to California and its performances have been attended with "Ohs" and "Ahs" of wonder. What next? The smell organ. It isn't exactly a book note but we will drag in a few books and authors by the scruff of their backs and necks before we are through. Wilfred who has perfected the color organ is now working on an "odor organ." The instrument will have keys that connect with atomizers. The atomizers will draw from numerous large bottles odors ranging from white rose to garlic that will be wafted to the audience by means of fans. If your sense of smell is getting blunted now is the time to look for "smellacles" for the nose.

James Huneker a popular writer of three decades ago had a premonition of the smell organ as he suggested an odor symphony: the music of certain composers to be interpreted by scents. Chopin's nocturnes, for example, suggested the fragrance of narcissus, heliotrope and yacynth. Beethoven's music exhaled the odor of apple blossoms. White rose, cedar and balsam. Mozart would be recognizable by the scent of mignonette and violets. What would we suggest for Benny Goodman's swing, we wonder?

Why is smell the step-child of the senses. Have you ever noticed that responsaires from famous people will tell you about the things that are pleasant to their sight, hearing and taste; if they enjoy an operatic aria or "A Tisket a Tasket," if they appreciate Italian primitives or the cartoons in the daily papers, if they relish avocadoes or plain roast beef, but you would think they had been spun without a nose as they never mention a favorite odor.

One of the most fascinating things about smell is its relation to memory. Dr. Holmes in "The Autocrat," explained the association of the two by assuming that the nerve of smell is the only nerve directly connected with that part of the brain in which the thought process takes place. The American psychologist Dr. Laird who conducted an experiment with his students in order to arrive at a better explanation, arrived at the conclusion that "when we smell, we don't think, we feel." Remember what Kipling says:

"Smells are surer than sounds or sights
To make your heart strings crack."
Heroines should flaunt their individual perfume. Thirty years ago they basked in the fragrance of new mown hay and jockey club. Today they are exotic with "My Sin" or "Scandal." Rossetti has a heroine in a poem whose title escapes us who lured her victims with the scent of rose and poppy. Elinor Wylie has one who reveled in the breath of sandal wood and ambergis. Keats gave away one of the feminine secrets of all time when he revealed the fact that Madeline (on "The Eve of St. Agnes") wore a night gown that was lavendered. And while on the intriguing subject of heroines and night gowns, we remember George Meredith's frolicsome heroine in "Love in the Valley" who was "as sweet as boughs of May in her long night gown."

In the sphere of morals it has been traditional to attribute a foul and horrible smell to evil. The old philosophers believed that every state of the soul had its scent; the scent of love was exciting and irresistible, "the scent of anger, acrid, that of sorrow musty and dank." Sanctity has an odor but we have yet to discover its ingredients.

Modern advertising doesn't neglect smell. Its potency is being utilized as a trade asset. We can remember the little shops of our childhood in which lurked mingled odors of spices, cheese, licorice and what not, and how we liked to patronize some shops more than others because of the elusive smell. Now scientific advertising is in pursuit of smells that will induce a pleasant expansive mood conducive to loosening the purse strings.

ward developing a keener sense of smell. Who knows but in a few years we will not all be like those trained rosarians who when blindfolded can identify forty different kinds of roses by their smell. Or we may all become like the blind boy who could form an opinion of a man's character just by smelling him.

ALASKA EPIC OPENS ON SUNDAY FOR 2 DAYS
AT EMPIRE

George Raft, Henry Fonda and Dorothy Lamour form Hollywood's newest trio as the cast leaders in "Spawn of the North," Paramount's sensational drama of Alaska, which will have its local showing Sunday at the Empire Theatre.

Based on the well-known novel by Barrett Willoughby, "Spawn of the North" tells a sweeping story of two lifelong friends caught in the cross-currents of a war for fishing rights off the Alaskan coast. Although the two men, Raft and Fonda, lead opposing factions in a bloody feud, their friendship proves stronger than the war of the Northland.

Saturday's attractions are "The Spy Ring," with William Hall and Jane Wyman, and "Prairie Moon," a western with Gene Autry and the juvenile star of recent prominence, Tommy Ryan.

Mothers Protest Xmas
Vacation Too Long

KENOSHA, Wis. (UP)—A delegation of mothers protested to the school board yesterday that nine days was too long for children to be home just before Christmas and asked that the vacation be shortened.

"The mental and physical strain would be too much," they said.

The board met last night and voted to keep schools open until Dec. 21 and added the difference to the Easter vacation.

Friday night on the air has its opening event on KPO at 5:30 when you can get the Army Band and KSFO serves Hollywood Hotel at 6 o'clock.

Guy Lombardo will entertain you on KPO at seven o'clock, but perhaps you'd rather pick up the Apostoli-Corbett fight on KGO at the same hour. Burns and Allen, KSFO at 8:30.

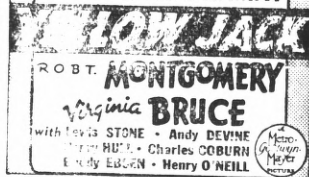

Shep Fields on KGO at 9 o'clock. Jan Garber on KPRC at 9:30, start off an evening of dance music which is rather lacking in major attractions until the hour before midnight, which opens with Wayne King on KPO and Gene Krupa at 11:30 on KSFO.
